MRS. A. C. MARTIN, Editor.

Paw Paw, Mich., Nov. 16, 1892.

The Fifty-Third Congress.

From present indications the United States senate will stand: Republicans, 42; Democrats, 41; Populists, 5. The house will stand: Republicans, 132; Democrats, 210; Populists, 12. In the present senate are 47 Republicans, 39 Democrats, and 2 Populists. In the house are 88 Republicans, 235 Democrats, and 9 Populists, a Democratic plurality of 147.

It will thus be seen that the democrats in the "landslide" with which they have swept the country, have secured control of both the senate and house. In the senate however they can do nothing without the aid of a doubtful fusionist-populist alliance element, a part of which at least may vote with the republicans on certain important questions. In the house the democratic plurality of 147, elected in the tidal wave of 1890, has been cut down to 78. In nearly every northern state the republicans have made up a part of their loss in 1890, much more indeed than would have been expected, considering how the states went on the presidential vote.

The states which elected legislatures to choose senators retiring March 4, 1893 are: California, Connecticut, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin, and Wyoming. Those which elected legislatures to elect senators to fill vacancies caused by the retirement of democratic senators the same date are: Delaware, Florida, Indiana, Maryland, Mississippi, New Jersey, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia. Thus twenty-eight senators in the next Congress depend upon the legislatures chosen on the 8th. The ten democratic senators whose terms expire in March will all be re-elected or succeeded by democrats. Of the republicans five senators are probably lost. Senator Hiseock of New York will be succeeded by a democrat. Senator Stewart will succeed himself from Nevada but on the votes of a silver instead of a republican legislature. Senator Paddock of Nebraska will be succeeded by a fusionist. Senator Perkins, who was appointed as successor to Senator Plumb of Kansas, will give way to the populist. Senator Sawyer of Wisconsin will be succeeded by a democrat.

How He Won in Illinois.

Mr. Washington Hering of Chicago received a telegram from Mr. Cleveland acknowledging the delivery of the vote of the Lutheran church of Illinois. The telegram reads in this wise:

New York, Nov. 9, '92.—Received of Washington Hering 25,000 Lutheran votes per contract of August 15.

"I received that telegram from Mr. Cleveland the day after election," said Mr. Hering. "I told Mr. Cleveland when I left Gray Gables last autumn that he must make me four promises."

"I requested that he would use his influence to place a branch of the national headquarters in Chicago, so as to pay special attention to the campaign in the west. He said he would, and he did. I asked him to place a clause in his letter of acceptance in favor of the parental control of the education of the child on the school issue. He said he would, and he did. I asked him to speak out plain on personal rights and against sumptuary laws. He said he would, and he did. I asked him to put in a World's Fair clause, and he did. I told him that if he would do this he would get 25,000 non-Catholic German votes in Illinois, and my word has been fulfilled. I told him that these 25,000 German votes had hitherto been cast for the Republican party, but under the conditions named they would go over to him."

No president ever entered the White House under more fortuitous surroundings than Mr. Cleveland will on the 4th of next March. The nations of the world are at peace, and the United States never before so prosperous. It will be a Columbus year, when the eyes of the whole world will be turned toward America, and her institutions will be under the white light of the best civilization. As Mr. Cleveland can have no aspirations to succeed himself, he will be untrammelled by no questions of the future. It will be his great good fortune, as well as that of the public, if his party pledges have not embarrassed him. He will enter upon his duties with far greater chances for success than upon a former occasion, from the fact that he has now a noble wife whom all parties unite in honoring. However pointed is the political campaign, the American people bow in honor to the chosen chief magistrate, and will do their part as good citizens to push forward every work and enterprise that will enhance the prosperity and happiness of the nation. Should Mr. Cleveland at the end of four years surrender his office with honors equal to those universally accorded Mr. Harrison, both he and the people will have abundant reasons for congratulation.

The effects of Democratic success are beginning to be felt in glass factories in the vicinity of Lima, Ohio. The Foster Shade and Lamp Company, the largest manufacturers of lamp shades in the United States, have put their men on half time, beginning Monday. Orders have suddenly stopped since the election owing to the uncertainty about the tariff on glass, and the proprietors have been compelled to take this step. The pay roll of this factory is $10,000 per month. The Consolidated Window Glass Works have followed suit, notifying their men that hereafter they will run only on orders. Their pay roll is $20,000 per month. The Foster factory, which had a standing order of $500 per week for one article of tableware, have received notice to discontinue shipments. It is generally admitted that the tariff on glass will certainly be reduced. This will make a big cut in the wages of the glass workers. The outlook for this business is not promising.

Mrs. Anna Scally, of Ft. Kinnret, Wyo., enjoys the proud distinction of being the first woman to sit upon a bench-judicial, of course. Lexicography now has before it a duty of inventing a feminine form of gender for justice of the peace, judge, etc. Then, again, there is the vocative case to be disposed of. "Your honor" might do it if it were not for suggested imputations to the contrary. The best way out of it would be a compromise on "your loveliness," or "your amiableness." The next step towards the realization of the rights of the sex will be to elect female sheriffs, constables and police. One sweet constabulary smile would be more potent than the hickory persuaders that now disgrace our civilization.

General Weaver, late Populist candidate for the presidency, says that his party is not a temporary affair, but is going to stay in the field and will be a factor in every campaign for the future. The work of organization of his party in the south is to be pushed vigorously, and he claims that by the time another presidential election rolls around the Populists will be able to carry a majority of the old slave states. Success to you, Mr. Weaver.

In their platform the Democrats declared unqualifiedly for free trade, and on that platform they have swept the country. They have the warrant of a popular verdict for putting into effect the tenets of their platform. Dare they do it? If they do, they must abide the consequences. If they do not, they will subject themselves to the ridicule of the whole people and alienate the support of many thousands who left other parties to vote with them on that issue.

Should Secretary Whitney get back into his old place in Cleveland's cabinet, he will be led to inquire with the German of the story, "Who's been here since I've been gone?" The Republicans have built up a great navy since he was there, and have a big lot of work blocked out for Democrats to finish up.

Some of the Democratic bosses are advising the Republican party "to disband." That's the same advice given by their party leaders to the Union army after the first battle of Bull Run. But its mission was not ended with Bull Run, neither was the mission of the Republican party ended with the result of Nov. 8.

The rooster just now is making more noise than the eagle. But the eagle has been there before, and is not roosting on the ground. He was around and a little discouraged at Bull Run, but he was alive and wide awake at Appomattox. The eagle is a bird that never stays licked very long.

Our estimates made last week concerning the complexion of the Michigan legislature have been fully verified. The returns show that the Republicans have eight majority in the senate, and thirty-eight in the house—more than two-thirds majority on joint ballot.

One thing that casts a threatening shadow over the Democratic rejoicing is the fact that Thomas B. Reed of Maine and Julius C. Burrows of Michigan will be on hand in the next congress to have "a little fun with the boys."

By all means let Mr. Cleveland arrange for an extra session of congress next March, as some of the Democratic organs suggest. If we are to have an era of tariff smashing and bank wrecking, the sooner it is over the better.

The Democrats crowded a little too soon over Ohio. The Republicans have elected all of the electors save one, the Republican state ticket, and ten of the twenty-three congressmen.

Viewing the situation calmly and in the light of recent events, we are persuaded that in a good many states the Republican party had a glut of leaders and a dearth of followers.

Capt. E. S. Densmore, chief usher at the White House, died at his home in Washington Sunday.

Let's see, 'twas just four years from Bull Run to Appomattox.

Roy Crippen, an 8-year-old Traverse City boy, made a journey to the state of Washington all alone.

An honest Swede tells his story in plain but unmistakable language for the benefit of the public. "One of my children took a severe cold and got the croup. I gave her a teaspoonful of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and in five minutes later I gave her one more. By this time she had to cough up the gathering in her throat. Then she went to sleep and slept good for fifteen minutes. Then she got up and vomited; then she went back to bed and slept good for the remainder of the night. I gave her the croup the second night and she got the same remedy with the same good results. I write this because I thought there might be some one in the same need and not know the true merits of this wonderful medicine. CHARLES A.
